There once live a beautiful Javanese princess named Roro Jonggrang. She was sad because her father, Prabu Baka, was defeated and killed by Bandung Bondowoso who wanted to marry her. She really didn't want to marry him, so he made a condition that she would marry him if he could build one thousand temples in one night as a wedding gift. Bandung agreed with this condition.

Bandung bondowoso started building the temples, being helped by the spirits of demons. Roro Jongrang was in a panic because the work was in panic because the work was nearly done. So, she woke all the women in the palace up and ordered them to make noisy sounds of grinding rice that made roosters think that the dawn had already broken.

Knowing that Roro Jongrang had deceived him, he became angry and cursed her. Suddenly, the princess turned into a statue. Bnadung Bondowoso then regretted this and he decided to go away to a far land.
