	WHY BOOKS ARE IMPORTANT FOR US?
	A wise man once said, "Learning without books means nothing." In my opinion, this is true. Why do I say that? This is for several reasons.
	→ Firstly , books are crucial in developing the mind and help foster critical thinking. For example, after reading a book, even if you don't agree with some of the points in the book, you might have ideas on how to improve them.
	→ Secondly , books not only contain stories, but also record facts and review histories. You can also learn about a certain period in history by discovering the popular books of the era. For example, you can learn about the French Revolutionary era by reading Alexander Dumas' A Tale of Two Cities.
	→ Lastly , books do not only educate, but also entertain. There are books containing mystery, drama, comedy, adventures, and so on. There are books about virtually everything. The possibilities are endless.
	→ Based on the reasons above , it is obvious that reading books is important for us. It is no wonder that books are said to be our "window of the world".

Activity 7: Structure

After watching the video about “Recycling, Reusing, and Reducing” read the following text.

The Importance of Recycling

Recycling is a process where waste or used products are reproduced into new products. There is a lot of waste around us. Do you know that recycling can help preserve the environment? In my opinion, recycling is very important for our life and environment. There are some reasons why recycling is important?

First, recycling can save our earth, recycling a material can help preserve the environment. For example, recycling the paper can result in paper production without additional tree falling. By recycling more paper and selling it to consumer, more papers can be used without further damaging the forest than its current rate of tree falling.

Second, recycling can save energy. Recycling a material takes less energy than to produce an item from virgin materials. For example, an aluminium product uses both the aluminium and the huge amount of energy to produce it from raw ore. Thus by recycling an item made of aluminium, we can reuse the metal again and also save the huge energy which helps preserve the environment.

Third, recycling helps mitigate global warming and reduce pollution. One of the biggest benefits of recycling is saving energy. Energy saving results in less emission of carbon or greenhouse gases which are by-product created by energy production, which are detrimental and harmful to the environment if released to the atmosphere.

Finally, recycling can save our money. Recycled products usually cost less. Using existing material and a lot less energy, recycled product can be sold for a fraction of the same item created using virgin materials. Apart from that, selling waste for recycling purposes converts garbage into useful crash.

In conclusion, recycling has many benefits for our environment and life. If the waste is not recycled, it will take generations to break down or decompose.
