Text 1

Recycling is important in today's world if we want to leave this planet for our future generations. It is good for the environment, since we are making new products from the old products which are of no use to us. There are many reasons why it's important to recycle as much as possible.

Making new products out of recycled materials reduces the need to consume precious resources. So recycling helps protect raw materials and protect natural habitats for the future.

Using recycling materials in the manufacturing process uses considerably less energy than that required for producing new products from raw materials.

Recycling reduces the need for extracting (mining, quarrying and logging), refining and processing raw materials all of which create substantial air and water pollution. As recycling saves energy, it also reduces greenhouse gas emissions, which helps to tackle climate change.

There are over 1,500 landfill sites in the UK and, in 2001, these sites produced a quarter of the UK's emissions of methane, a powerful greenhouse gas that is released as the biodegradable waste (such as food and paper) decomposes. Existing landfill sites are filling up fast and there is very limited space for new ones.

A massive reduction in the amount of waste we send to landfill is required if we are to avoid the heavy fines and the landfill taxes that are being imposed by Central Government on councils that exceed their landfill allowances. Increases in your Council Tax or service cuts in other areas would be the only way of paying these penalties.

Text 2.

Nowadays, fast food is considered as a normal eating venture. People are not just eating out on special occasions or weekends anymore. It means that all the time they mostly eat fast foods. However, is fast food good for health?

Fast food has its popularity in the 1940s. Within a few years, fast-food operations popped up everywhere. With the compelling rise in fast-food restaurants since the 1940s, oddly it started the rise in obesity and cancer during that same time period.

Fast food is highly processed with a wide array of additives. To ensure fast food's low cost, the fast food products are made with highly-processed ingredients to give it shelf-life, to hold consistency, and to enhance flavor. Fast food is altered from its original healthy form.

It is not the calories in fast food which damage health and waistline. It is the chemical additives such as aspartame and MSG (monosodium glutamate). Studies show that the chemical additives lead to weight and disease issues.

So, there is absolutely nothing nutritional about fast food. Fast food simply feeds hunger and craving.

Text 3.

Nowadays, like it or not, the way people think is influenced by social media. People can get different benefit. Social media is very beneficial for business. Salespersons tend to advertise their product through social networks. They do not have to spend a lot of money to promote their product on printed ads on radio or television commercials. In social media, it is free to advertise. The only cost is energy and time and a little money to reload your cell phone. Through Facebook, Twitter, WA, online shopping media or any other social site, you can lower your marketing cost by a significant amount.

For society, social media has also brought about important effects. Social campaigns, such as sanitation, healthcare, are effectively transformed for the whole society. Pictures, detailed information and videos might be enclosed, as part of the campaign, so people can easily follow the ideas.

In conclusion, social media is not something that people should put aside. In fact, it has a lot of benefit for the society.
