Narrative text:

TIMUN MAS

Once upon a time, there was a poor widow named Mbok Sini that lived alone in her humble house on the edge of the jungle. She felt so lonely and prayed to the gods to bless her with a child. A green-skinned giant named Butho Ijo heard her prayer and approached her. He gave her a seed of cucumber. The green giant told her to plant the cucumber seed and she will have a child. She must nurture the child, however when the child had grown up, Mbok Sini must give the child back to Butho Ijo. The giant wished to eat the child. Eager to have a child, Mbok Sini agreed with Butho Ijo's deal.

Mbok Sini returned to her home and planted the cucumber seed. Later, a magical golden cucumber grew from its seed, and when Mbok Sini took the cucumber and opened it, a beautiful baby girl appeared inside it. Thus, she named the baby girl Timun Mas which means "golden cucumber". Year after year, Timun Mas grew to become a beautiful girl. She is a loving, kind and diligent child always willing to help and take care of an aging Mbok Sini.

Just a week before Timun Mas' 17th birthday, Butho Ijo appeared in front of Mbok Sini's house and reminded her about her promise, and announces that within one week he will return to collect Timun Mas. Mbok Sini was so sad and hastily went to the mountain to seek help from a wise old hermit residing on a mountain. After hearing her story, the old hermit gave her four small bags of cloth with something inside it. The four objects inside the bags are cucumber seeds, needles, salts, and terasi (shrimp paste). The hermit told Mbok Sini to give these objects to Timun Mas and tell her to throw them when she is being chased by the giant. Mbok Sini returned home and told Timun Mas what to do if the green giant chased her.

Finally on Timun Mas' 17th birthday, Butho Ijo appeared at Mbok Sini's house to take Timun Mas as promised: he will eat the girl. Mbok Sini ordered Timun Mas to run for her life. Timun Mas quickly ran as fast as the giant furiously chasing her. Later, Butho Ijo caught up to the fleeing Timun Mas. In distress, Timun Mas opened one of her four cloth bags spreading cucumber seeds behind her. Suddenly, a large cucumber vine appeared and strangled the giant's body, trapping him so that he can't move. This gave Timun Mas time to escape further. However the powerful giant finally managed to break free and continued his chase. Timun Mas opened her second bag and spread needles behind her. Suddenly the needles transformed into a bamboo forest with sharp tips that wounded the giant badly. The giant was badly wounded stuck with sharp bamboos, yet he managed to get through the sharp bamboo forest and caught up to the running Timun Mas again. She opened her third bag and spread salts behind her back. Suddenly a sea appeared behind her drowning the evil giant. However the giant managed to swim through the sea and continued to chase her. Timun Mas, once again, almost got caught and opened her last bag. She threw the terasi behind her and continued to run desperately. Suddenly the terasi shrimp paste transformed into sea of boiling volcanic mud. Butho Ijo was stuck inside the boiling hot mud, drowned and died. Timun Mas finally survived and return to her mother Mbok Sini, and they lived happily ever after.
